Great Minds: J. K. Rowling

by Lydia Lukidis

Wizards, Hogwarts, and Gryffindors! Everybody knows J. K. Rowling is the author of the ever popular Harry Potter series. Everybody knows she's incredibly successful, famous, and rich. But Rowling's past wasn't so magical. She certainly didn't have anything handed to her on a silver platter. She represents a true rags to riches story.

Let's go back in time for a moment. Rowling was born in 1965 in Yate, England. Her parents were voracious readers. She grew up surrounded by books. She quickly became a bookworm and dreamed of being a writer. Her favorite subjects in school were English and languages. No surprise there. By the age of six, she wrote her first story. By the age of eleven, she wrote her first full length novel. That's pretty incredible!

Upon graduating university, she worked a series of jobs in London as a secretary and teacher. She also worked at Amnesty International. In 1991, Rowling left England to work as an English teacher in Portugal. That's where she met her first husband. They quickly got married and welcomed a child shortly after.

Unfortunately, this was a turbulent era for Rowling. Soon after her daughter was born, her marriage fell apart. The couple got divorced. In an instant, she lost everything. She became homeless and unemployed.

Now a single mother, she moved back to England. She lived in a tiny apartment and looked after her daughter. She survived on public assistance and had a few brief odd jobs here and there. But she never gave up on her writing. She continued to write stories every chance she got. She would write in cafes as her daughter napped.

Rowling first dreamed up Harry Potter when she was delayed on a train. She was

if one only remembers
to turn on the light.”

imagining creating a place where a child could have power. This is what sparked the idea of Hogwarts, the School of Witchcraft and Wizardry.

Over the next five years, she developed her ideas and outlined the series of seven books. She scribbled her notes by hand on scraps of paper and napkins. Soon she had a pile of notes that she had to piece together. Despite living in poverty and suffering from depression, she persevered.

When she finished the first manuscript (Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone), it was rejected. That seems unbelievable! In fact, it was rejected a dozen times. This went on for a year. Then the publishing company Bloomsbury finally accepted it. The first book was published in 1997.

As soon as the book hit the market, it gained instant popularity. Rowling began to receive thousands of letters from fans. It appealed both to children and adults. The Harry Potter series is now published in 80 languages, and has sold over 500 million copies across the world.

Cut to today, and Rowling is wildly successful in her professional career. As you all know, the merchandising of Harry Potter alone is pretty extraordinary. She gets royalty checks for each Harry Potter item sold, from lunch boxes to umbrellas! And of course, she landed even more fame and money once the eight Harry Potter movies were made. She has also written many other books like the Fantastic Beasts series, and some books for adults.

Rowling got married again and had two more children. Today, she lives a happy and charmed life. She has received many awards and honors, including an OBE for services to children's literature, France's Légion d'Honneur, and the Hans Christian Andersen Award. She is worth hundreds of millions of dollars.

But she will never forget where she came from. Rowling regularly donates large amounts of money to various charities. She loves to help those less fortunate than her. Her determined and compassionate spirit keeps her humble. This is yet another reason everyone adores her.
